

A native of Kentucky, James Scrugham was born in Lexington on January 19, 1880. He came to Nevada to become an associate professor of mechanical engineering at the University of Nevada in 1903, serving as dean from 1914 to 1917. Before becoming governor, Scrugham served as State Engineer and as a Public Service Commissioner.

After his term as governor, he was the publisher of the Nevada State Journal until 1932, when he was elected to the U.S. Congress (1933-1943) and the U.S. Senate (1943-1945). He died in office on June 2, 1945.
